The petition of Thomas Stewardson on behalf of himself and the other trustees for the estate of Samuel Caldwell, surviving partner of James Meese, bearing date Philadelphia, 5th Month 17th 1799, stated as follows, viz. That a certain John Collins had in consequence of fraudulent deeds poll, obtained patents for two certain tracts of land, one situate in the county of Northumberland, surveyed to Samuel Caldwell in pursuance of a warrant dated in 1774; and the other situate now in Luzerne county, surveyed to said Caldwell by a warrant also dated in 1774—and requested that patents might be granted, for the said tracts, to William Crammond, Edward Tilghman, John Ashley, and Thomas Stewardson, trustees of the estate of Samuel Caldwell, surviving partner of James Meese, as the said two tracts were part of the estate of Meese and Caldwell.

Whereupon the Board having considered the same, ordered that at least sixty days notice be given in one of the Philadelphia newspapers, and in the Lancaster Journal to the said Collins or his assigns, to appear before the Board on the first Monday in October next, to shew cause if any he or they have, why patents should not issue for the said two tracts to the said trustees agreeably to the prayer of the said petition.

DOWNING-STREET, June 22, 1799.

The emperor of Russia having, as a mark of friendship towards his majesty, and of esteem and regard toward his majesty's naval service, and particularly towards the officers and crews of the ships who served on the 1st of August, 1792, under the command of rear admiral lord Nelson, signified to his majesty's minister at Petersburgh his desire, that the Leander, of 50 guns, which, having been engaged in that action, was, after a most gallant and distinguished resistance captured on its passage home by a French ship of the line of 74 guns, and has since been re-captured from the enemy by his imperial majesty's arms at the surrender of Corfu, shoulp be presented to his majesty, in his imperial majesty's name with a view to its being restored to his naval service.

The king has been pleased to accept, with the highest satisfaction this distinguished mark of attention and friendship on the part of his ally, and has directed, that the Leander should be received accordingly from such officer as the emperor of Russia may direct to deliver the same, and should again be placed among the ships composing his majesty's fleet employed in the Mediterranean.

LONDON, July 8.

Our Plymouth letters mention the arrival of the John (cartel) of that port, from Morlaix, the captain of which says, that though not suffered to land, he had learnt from the guard put upon the vessel, that a rumour prevailed there of the French and British Fleets having an engagement in the Mediterranean, in which the former was victorious. Our readers will at once see that this must be the same report that was mentioned in the last Baris papers, which stated that the French had taken six of our ships—an event so improbable that we took no other notice of the news than merely to give it a place among our extracts.

The circumstances of Captain Singleton not having been allowed to land with his prisoners, is very unusual, and we may therefore conclude that something of moment has happened, of which the French wish to keep this country ignorant, as long as they can.

If an action has actually taken place between the fleets, there is more reason to conclude it has been disastrous to the enemy than to us; for if they had been victors, they would have been glad of an oppurtuuity to boast of the advantage.

From a gentleman on board the Cambrian, now off Havre de Grace, we have this day received a letter, dated so late as Friday last, forwarded to us from Portsmouth: it looks as if an action had really taken place, but with a different result from that stated in the French papers. By two spies received on board the same day, Cambrian was informed, that in an engagement between the two fleets the French had been defeated, fifteen ships taken and five sunk.

We regret that the hurry in which our correspondent wrote prevented his giving either the time or other circumstances connected with the action: but should the news prove true, we may expect that ministers will soon have it in their power to lay the particulars before the public.

THE Creditors of Baly, Hill, & Evans, Insolvent Debtors, in the county of Sussex, are to meet the Assignee at the Court-House in said county, on the 25th of Dec. next, at 10 o'clock A. M. in order to make a dividend of said Insolvent's estate, that may come to hand by that day.

SPECULATION.

TO BE SOLD,

AT Public Vendue, on Monday the 23d of September next, at 2 o'clock, P. M. at the house of the Subscriber, living in the town of New-Castle, State of Delaware, a number of valuable suitable for building on, being the South square of the flourishing town of New-Castle aforesaid, distant from Philadelphia thirty-three miles.

This valuable property is highly capable of improvement, being immediately on the river Delaware, having a number of wharf lots on it; and from the depth of the water (earth and materials for wharfing being easily procured) there is no doubt but wharves would bring a handsome interest.

This property consists of five acres more or less, in one body; lays high, and is divided into lots to suit every description of persons.—New-Castle is one of the most healthy and flourishing towns on the continent; and from the increase of trade it has raised property to four times the value it was seven years past.—The number of vessels bound out and in, which stop for supplies of stock, &c. &c. and the whole carriage of goods between Philadelphia and Baltimore, is now through this place. The packets and stages from the aforesaid cities, &c. &c. make it very lively: there is not, at this time, one house to be rented in the place; and the number of applications for houses make it an object for persons to improve. There are a number of elegant and useful buildings now going on, a Public Academy and several private Schools. The malignant Fever has never made any progress, and the Ague scarcely known; the number of children in this place is a convincing proof of the healthiness of it. The prospect of the river Delawrre, up and down is delightful; as far as the eye can distinguish you may view the vessels in different attitudes There is reason to suppose that public piers for the Navy will be built here, as vessels can sail from this place when the river is fast at Philadelphia.

The conditions of sale will be easy and made known on the day of sale. Places of public worship, market and mills are very contiguous

JOHN DARRAGH.

N. B.—A plat of the above will be exhibited any time previous, as well as on the day of sale.

Germantown, Sept. 5, 1799

Extract from a Sermon preached Aug. 25, 1799, in Christ Church and St. Peters, by the Rev. JAMES ABERCROMBIE, A. M. one of the Assistant Ministers of said churches; and afterwards connected with another Sermon, and delivered by him, with the necessary verbal alterations, in Germantown, on Sunday last; the churches in Philadelphia being then shut, on account of the increasing prevalence of the Yellow Fever.

TEXT.

Ecclesiastes, 7th chap. 14th verse.

In the day of adversity, consider.

"IN the conclusion of this discourse, I am naturally led, from the peculiar nature of our present situation, most strenuously to urge you to comply with the injunction in my text. And here a copious and affecting subject of remonstrance presents itself—but I have already so far trespassed upon your time and attention, in endeavoring to illustrate and recommend the general principles of the duty inculcated, that I must necessarily be very brief in its particular application, leaving to the suggestions of your own minds, in your hours of retirement and serious reflection, (of which you will probably soon have many) the supply of my present deficiency.

"The mantle of death, brethren, is at length again unfurled, and spread over our once happy city, literally fulfilling the declaration of the apostle: for while we were saying "peace and safety, sudden destruction hath come upon us!"

"But a few days ago, we were felicitating ourselves, and congratulating our fellow citizens, on the prospect of security, during the present summer, from the ravages of that dreadful disease, which, during the two preceding, had effected such awful desolation among us; and now we are suddenly and unexpectedly involved in the same confusion, terror and dismay, which we have thrice before experienced.

"Surely, under such circumstances, we are, in an especial manner called upon, in this our "day of adversity, to consider!"

"Banished, as we shall be, from the comforts and advantages of our respective homes—driven from the accustomed theatre of action—our property exposed to the depradations of the lawless and unprincipled midnight robber, and to the more dangerous and destructive effects of fire, whether communicated by casual occurrence or malicious design—while many of connections, friends, or acquaintance, are torn from our caresses, and the usual reciprocations of hospitality, by the unexpected arrest of death, we ought most seriously to review our past lives, to reflect upon the transitory and unstable nature of all earthly things, and to consider such severe and afflictive dispensations of providence, as loudly calling us to repentance, and a diligent preparation to meet our God.

"We indeed yet survive; but who can presume to say, that he shall certainly escape the threatening danger? The arrow of death, may already be levelled at many in this assembly!—Brethren, think on these things!—think what it is to die—that it is an inevitable event—and that after death, there will be as inevitable a judgment; and remember, that the Almighty Creator and Governor of the world, "doth not willingly afflict or grieve the children of men;" but that when we suffer under the chastening scourge of affliction, God "dealeth with us as with sons." And tho', says the apostle Paul to the Hebrews, "no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous, nevertheless, afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruits of righteousness, to those who are exercised," or as the original word may be translated, instructed or edified thereby.

"May we then, wisely profit by the discipline administered; and with the illustrious King of Israel acknowledge, "It is good for us that we have been afflicted, that we might learn the statutes of the Lord."

"And, if the mercy of God should be so far extended to us, as to grant us protection from the sword of the destroying angel, and a safe return to our deserted dwellings, let not his goodness be bestowed on us in vain, but let a sense of his love, produce the fruit of obedience to his laws, neither let us pharisaically suppose, that that goodness is particularly extended to us, for any superior merit of our own, and that those who become the victims of disease and death, were "sinners above all those who dwelt in our city; I tell you nay." Some of them will assuredly be ready and anxious "to give an account of their stewardship," though very many, 'tis to be feared, will be altogether unprepared for so alarming and irresistible a summons.

"Of the former happy number, was doubtless that eminently pious and useful Divine, Dr. JOHN SMITH, pastor of the third Presbyterian congregation in this city, who hath fallen, alas! one of the earliest victims of the pestilence.

"His departure from among us, is indeed a severe deprivation to the flock over which he presided, and to the circle of his relatives and friends, an irreparable loss. In him, "a great man hath fallen in the Israel" of the Christian Church—"An Israelite indeed, in whom there was no guile." He, however, hath experienced a blest exchange of worlds; and having lived and died a faithful and exemplary servant of the Lord, now rests from his labours;" while the record of his words and works, a bright memorial of his sincerity and successful zeal in "turning many to righteousness," when presented before the throne of God, will procure for him a diadem of glory, which will for ever adorn his brows with celestial radiance.—"Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his!"

"An intimate knowledge of the singular excellence of this good man, this late fellow-labourer in the great cause of truth and righteousness, demands from me, this just and public tribute to his memory. Be it our parts, brethren, LIKE HIM to render the arrest of death a commission to conduct us to the Paradise of God. Like good King Hezekiah, let us pray unto the Lord to preserve our lives, for our further amendment and growth in grace: And as sincere christians, let us (during the present public calamity) benevolently include in our prayers, those more afflicted citizens, who may be subjected to the sad necessity of remaining inhabitants of Philadelphia; and in the following energetic language of our church, daily supplicate the throne of mercy, in our own and their behalf:

"Turn thou us, O good Lord? and so "shall we be turned. Be favourable, O Lord, "be favourable to thy people; for thou art "a merciful God, full of compassion, long-"suffering, and of great pity. Thou spareſt "when we deserve punishment, and in thy "wrath, thinkest upon mercy. Spare thy "people, good Lord! spare them; and let "not thine heritage be brought to confu-"sion. Hear us, O Lord! for thy mercy "is great, and after the multitude of thy "mercies look upon us, through the merits "and mediation of thy blessed Son, Jesus "Christ, our Lord. Amen!"

ASULON.

A Retreat from the Yellow Fever.

WHILE the Citizens of Philadelphia are making laudable exertions to protect their City, from the dreadful Invasions of their annual visitant, the yellow fever, it is surprizing they do not turn their attention to provide a safe and commodious place of refuge, from the scene of its ravages. Hope is soon out, every year, that it will not come. Time and temper are wasted on the question "how or whence does it come?" Multitudes, every season, persuade themselves and their neighbours, 'till it is next door to them, that it is not come. They are offended with every one who announces the melancholy truth, that the enemy is within the walls. They sift circumstances; and proclaim that the subjects of its wrath have perished by other disorders. They are determined against believing that the destroyer is at work, lest their business should languish, and the credit of the city be injured. Some of their friends and families fall—they are the convinced—they fly, if they can,—but know not whither. They pay enormous sums for miserable accommodations. Some, disgusted, or exhausted in their means, return before the foe has retreated, and fall victims to their too eager desires to re-possess their own homes. All this might, in a great degree, be avoided, if, in time, some asylum were provided. This might be done at a less expence, ultimately, than their annual extra expenditures drain from them. Instead of wasting our time and depressing our spirits in useless lamentation, we should rouse all our energies, and expend some of our money, to evade or repel this truly formidable misfortune.

I do not pretend to dictate, or exclusively fix on any particular spot, to which the citizens should pay more attention, than to another. But some such place, or places, should be sought; and every person wishing to contribute to the safety of the citizens, should be indulged with a candid hearing. If a convenient spot, enjoying good air and pure water, and where materials for building may be obtained with facility, can be found, it should be explored and procured. If it afforded short and easy access to the city, so that articles of merchandize, fuel and materials for manufactures, could be cheaply transported, by land or water, these advantages should give it a preference. It should be so distant as to be out of the vortex of infection, and yet sufficiently near to communicate with the city without difficulty or much expence. A Village might in such a spot soon be established. Tradesmen would occupy small lots, and one working for another, would, at a cheap rate, run up houses and shops for their families and business; and instead of spending their time and substance in idleness, ruinous and intolerable to themselves, in times of calamity, they might pursue their occupations to their own, and the benefit of the community. Those who deal in the necessaries, or conveniencies of life, would erect stores, or places for their accommodation, and have a market near them. Hotels or houses of entertainment would be built to receive those who had not families. Trees may be planted, in gardens and walks; and rural scenery, not to be found in a city, contribute to health and amusement. Compting houses and stores would be erected by merchants, to which their customers might safely resort. If a fortunate choice of the site were made, the Banks, and Insurance offices, instead of paying high rents upon emergencies, would probably build houses for the temporary conducting their business. The Custom-house might be opened there, or in its vicinity, if short and easy access could be had to the shipping, and the Post-Office would be at hand. Printers would establish temporary offices. Schools might be opened during the times of pestilence in the city, or constantly during the heats of summer. This would invite settlers and prevent the interruption of education; which is not a small evil produced by the infection of the city. The Courts might occasionally be held there. There might be regulations, to prevent the contiguity of buildings; and proper positions fixed, for those carrying on offensive trades. It may be said, this will become a new city, and injure the old capital in no small degree. Its position forbids any such fear. One on the Delaware might be a more dangerous rival; but it would soon be subject to infection, as the city now is.—There is no reason to suppose any rivalship.—Villages well disposed, round great cities, encrease their prosperity. Multitudes of towns encircle Manchester, and other cities and great towns in England and other parts of Europe, which encrease by the fabrics manufactured in the towns. Beside, the inhabitants of Philadelphia, having a place of safety near them, for temporary refuge, would not, as many now do, abandon the city entirely. There would be no danger that too many would croud into this contemplated village of Asulon. There would be rivals, at whatever spot be fixed on. Merchants, and others in opulent circumstances, would disperse round the country, if it afforded a variety of sites for country residences; and only have compting-houses, or offices, in the village. If it be placed at the junction of great leading roads, from the back parts of the state, and from the other states dealing with our city, the advantages will all be concentrated. It will be found that it is wiser and more œconomical to begin some system of escaping our repeated calamity, than to be always overtaken by it unprovided.

Let every one, who chooses to turn his thoughts to the subject, endeavour to fix on a site. Without having a foot of land there, for this village, I have thought of the spot on the West side of Schuylkill, opposite Market-street, on the high grounds, at the junction, or near it, of the Western and Southern roads, leading over the bridge at Market-street. I think this spot unites all the advantages I have mentioned. The Schuylkill gives every facility of water transportation, both from the inland country Northward, and from the Delaware. On the margin of Schuylkill, store-houses, lumber-yards, &c. may be established; and merchandize and produce brought, in small vessels, to both sides of that river.

The passage of the bridge or river, might be easily guarded, to prevent communication, if any deplorable circumstances required it, The very incommodious and dangerous bridge over the Schuylkill is an objection.—But how shameful is it that a permanent bridge is not built? It is a disgrace to such a city, that this work has been so long neglected. I am told now, that it only waits for subscriptions to the stock of the company, authorized by law to make this erection. This stock, from all the information I can obtain, will be a very profitable source of revenue. A convenient, safe and permanent bridge would encrease the profits many fold, by the addition of pleasurable carriages. The present income is no rule. This, being the shortest and best route to the Southward, would unite the custom of all the bridges. The revenue would exceed the £15 pr. cent. (in all probability,) which the company, as I am informed, are authorized to take. Without any such plan as I have mentioned, this bridge ought to be immediately encouraged and completed. Combined with this plan, and aided by the citizens of all descriptions, and though last—not least—the Banks and Insurance-Offices—who could not employ a redundance of capital to more profit—this great and indispensibly necessary work would be soon completed. The village and the bridge will be of mutual advantage to each other. The country customers to the village would pay no toll; and the healthfulness of the position, and water transportation, would over-ballance any expence of toll to the inhabitants of this, over a situation not near a navigable river.

Whether this proposition is or is not well received, it is well intended. If it sets better heads to thinking on some more eligible plan, or to assist in effectuating this, I shall not be mortified if those who do not like it call me

A PROJECTOR.

SIR,

Referring you to my respects of the 8th inst. I have at present to add, that all vessels that arrive are permitted to enter, but none as yet have obtained leave to land any thing but Flour.

From the best information I can obtain I believe that all of them will be allowed to unload in a few days, and that henceforward vessels loaded with provisions only, will be admitted. I shall continue to advise you of every alteration which may be made.

I have the honor to be,

AMERICAN INVENTION.

Mr. Benjamin Dearborn, of Massachusetts, a native American, has established the Manufacture of a Vibrating Steelyard, or just balance, for which he has a patent, under the seal of the United States This instrument unites the convenience of the Steelyard, with the accuracy of the Scale Beam; it gives the near and gross hundred upon inspection, without reducing one into the other, and no art in the manner of using it, can cause it to err.

Should the inventor meet with encouragement he proposes to bring forward other discoveries, not less worthy their notice, which otherwise will rest in obscurity, or be published in Europe.

"Kingston, Aug. 1, 1799.

"Conformable to your request I have obtained what information I could concerning the Spanish trade from this place, but from what I can learn none but British and Spanish subjects can partake of its sweets, under royal protection; consequently, American property or American vessels will fall a sacrifice. At present I cannot advise you to send any property to these islands, or any of them; for when Americans can go with safety, produce is lower than with you, and every vessel taken going to or from Danish islands, or the Havanna, is deemed legal prize. Captain Lovett was sent in here a few days since, bound from Carthagena to New York; he says, he saw at Carthagena, a proclamation of the King of Spain, to the Viceroys and Governors of the several provinces on the Main and Islands, authorising them at discretion, to open their ports for the importation of such goods and mercandize not of the growth and manufacture of Great Britain, as they should deem expedient in American and Danish vessels from Denmark. But, he says, that such interest has been made by the British government, by means of douceurs and otherways, that they now supply every thing which is the reason their ports have not been open to us This trade is too extensive not to deserve notice.

"My vessel, after I was taken, was consigned to Waterhouse, who appears to be one of the most unprincipled and worst of men—he is Hyde Parker's agent, and agent for all, or nearly all, the cruising vessels out of place. This profit and honor is conferred on him because there be nothing wanting to condemn a vessel but what he will do or get done.

"The present judge of the admiralty court purchased his appointment—and I have no doubt will make a good speculation out of it—he has never been regularly appointed—you recollect the excuse made by lord Grenville, in his note to Mr. King, for the condemnation of American vessels at the Mole.

"It is usual for the Americans in this port to hoist their colors on Sunday, and of late it has been customary for those sent in by the British for adjudication, to hoist the American union down, to shew as much contempt at possible to the United Sates.

"The ship Niger, which was taken by an American ship—sent into Norfolk—there acquainted, and the United States paying heavy damages—her owner has been heard to boast here of her having had at the time of her capture two sets of papers, that is English and French! and at the same time cruising to intercept the American commerce, had no sooner returned here than a number of gentlemen went on board to dine, when the American ensign was hoisted at the mizen peak, the union down, and at 5 o'clock lowered it under the stern! you cannot mistake what this meant."

GEORGE-TOWN, September 3.

The stockholders of the Potomak company, at their late meeting unanimously agreed upon a plan for raising funds to open completely the navigation of the Potomak. This is as an object of immense importance to a vast extent of fertile country; and whether we consider this circumstance—the astonshing works of this kind which have been accomplished in other countries and their incalculable utility, or the progress already made in the works on this noble river, there is reason to hope, that so great an object will still secure in its favor, the enlightened and wise patronage of the individuals and states so deeply interested in its completion, and that the plan will be attended with perfect success.

Two or more gentlemen have lately gone up towards the head of the river intending to take a full view of it as they descend by water.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.

Were it not that an unfavorable construction might be put on our silence, we should think it unnecessary to repeat, what we uniformly have had the pleasure to declare,—That Boston remains as healthy as it has ever been since our remembrance, during the summer months.

WASHINGTON, (K.) August 21.

Extract of a letter from col. Wm. Ward, one of the principal settlers on Mad river, to the editors.

"Since there is so great a rumour thro' the country respecting an Indian war, it might perhaps be gratifying to the public to hear the circumstances which gave rise to the report from one who has seen and heard the matter investigated between the Whites and Indians. It appears the Indians were calling in their scattered people, for the purpose of settling them in some regular manner, as they were before their dispersion by the wars. About the same time some ill disposed persons informed the Shawanese indians, that the Chickasaws were about making war against them, and that some of them were then laying in wait to put their hostile designs in execution. At this the Shawanese were much alarmed, and made preparations for their defence; from which preparations (and by exaggerated accounts of them too) the Whites took alarm, thinking the Indians intended war against them, which caused some persons, whose situation exposed them to the most danger, to go in search of the truth, and by bringing the parties together, discovered (in my opinion) that the apprehension of a war between them was wholly groundless; and that some evil-minded or imprudent persons had brought things to the pass they were, through design or folly. I have in my possession the chief of the correspondence on the subject: but as it is lengthy, I do not suppose worth your trouble to print, or the people to read it—assuring you and them, that what I write is all that can be got out of it. I was present at the investigation of the whole affair.

"WILLIAM WARD."

Col. Ward is just come in, and travelled as far as Cincinnati with four Shawanese chiefs, whose design is to explain the matter to the Governor of the N. W. Territory. Col. W. has left his family behind him, and is entirely void of apprehension of danger. The Indians having evacuated a small town where they had had small crops of corn growing, was the chief cause of alarm.—Their reasons for leaving it have been satisfactorily explained.

PITTSBURGH, August 31.

On the 23d inst. between the hours of two and three o'clock in the morning, a person calling himself Samuel Johnson, was brought before Justice Wilkins, apprehended in committing a burglary in the house of Mr. Thomas Bracken, in this borough.

On examination, some suspicions arising that this person was not a man, though habited as such, a strict search took place, and it was soon discovered, that HE was of the female sex. All necessary precautions had been taken to prevent a discovery, and in which she succeeded for a length of time, as appears by her confession, viz.

"That she was a married woman, and had five children, the oldest 18 years of age; that she had worn men's cloathing 5 years, and passed by the name of Samuel Johnston; had worked and been several times in Pittsburgh, in the same cloathing; that her present place of abode was in the Forks of Yough, where she passed for a weaver; that her connections and children were in Virginia, and that her name was Sarah Johnson; that when she was taken in Mr. Bracken's another person, called John Clark, was also in the house, but made his escape; that he had stole a bridle and saddle out of Mr. Crabb's tavern, and that he made his home about the Black Horse tavern in the forks of Yough, Turnbull's iron works, and Devore's Ferry."

She is confined in the gaol of Allegheny county, and it is supposed she is connected with a gang of horse thieves, and that their chain of conveying horses to their connexions in different parts of the United States, is through the Forks of Yough; therefore the inhabitants ought to be watchful of all suspicious persons.

CINCINNATI, August 20.

It is with great pleasure we inform the public, that a principal chief of the Shawanese, and three others, came to this place on Friday last, and has given assurances to the Governor that their nation, and, as far as they know, all others, are perfectly friendly to the Americans. That the frontiers having been evacuated by them, and the people drawn together to build forts, had distressed them, and added to the alarm they were under about the Chickesaws, who, as they had been informed, were coming in great force to attack them. That their being in arms at their towns was with no other view than to defend themselves against the Chickesaws. and that they had brought their women and children into them, and were making some fortification about them for their security. That the sole end of their coming here at this time, was that the people might be satisfied they had no bad design against them, and that Neimpsico, another chief well known to them, had gone to the Great Miami, to give the people there the same assurances.

We have authority to say that it is the opinion of the governor that at present, the inhabitants have nothing to fear from the Shawanese.

PORTSMOUTH August 31.

Capt. Charles Blunt, of the Dianna, arrived here on Wednesday last, in 24 days from Trinidad. He informs that two days after he left Trinidad, he was taken by a French privateer letter of Marque from St. Thomas' bound to Guadaloupe, who took out the mate and one seamen; Captain Blunt and four others feigning themselves sick were left on board, in care of a prize master and four stout hands; who were ordered to proceed for St. Eustatia, and sell the prize, remitting the neat proceeds to Guadaloupe. But Captain Blunt having preconcerted the scheme of recapture, came upon deck on the morning of the 7th of August and seizing on a cutlass, at the same moment that one of his hands seized a musket, they began to try the fortune of War. A blow from the but-end of the musket settled Mr. Helmsman pretty quick; but rising again, Capt. Blunt aimed a second stroke with the cutlass and quieted his bowels. The prize master coming aft to help his man, was obliged to surrender also; and by the assistance of the rest of the crew and passenger the remainder of the Frenchmen were secured. Capt. Blunt then gave him his long boat, their chests, some provisions, and water, and set them out on a new cruise to find land, After they were put into the boat, they told Capt. Blunt that he was a damned brave fellow, thanked him for his humanity and wished him safe to port. Capt. B. then made the best of his own way for port, and every true American bids welcome to the naval hero. His gallant conduct merits a good ship.

Honourable Anecdote of Capt. Blunt.

The French gang whom Capt. Blunt so gallantly conquered, had a large quantity of Johannes with with the spoils of many an honest fellow. It was mentioned by some that Capt. Blunt should seize enough of this ill gotten gain to pay for his long boat. No, says the manly seaman; It is none of my business how they came by their gold. It appears to be theirs, and I will not touch a farthing.—French Pirates pipe all hands upon deck and belay the main sheet of plunder with such a stopper.

ALEXANDRIA, August 23.

DIED,

On Friday morning the 16th instant near Dumfries, Mr. DANIEL FORD, in the 20th year of his age, of that dreadful malady the Hydrophobia, very much and very justly regretted.

He was seized with the symptoms of disease on the Wednesday morning preceding, but two days previous to that he felt a pain extending from his wrist, where he was bit, to his neck, but paid little regard to it supposing it to be rheumatic.—During the short period of his illness, which was only about 46 hours, though conscious of his situation and approaching end, he behaved with the most manly resolution; and even in the last agonies of his distress, he exhibited no symptoms of violence, nor the smallest disposition to injure any of his attendants. He was on his knees when the last paroxism attacked him and relieved him from his misery.

Though the case will probably be published at full length in the Medical Repository of New York, it may not be uninteresting to insert in this abstract the copy of a letter he wrote to his brother the day on which the Hydrophobia seized him: It is at once a proof of his capacity and firmness of mind.

Wednesday, 14th August.

"DEAR JOHN,

"From a discovery this morning I earnestly solicit your presence this evening, if you ever wish to see or converse with me again while in my proper senses. This morning while at Mr. Brown's, I was about to wash, when putting my face over the bowl I felt an instantaneous shock of the Hydrophobia: since which time I have not been able to drink or see water without feeling a similar shock. Please request some Physician to come up with you, as I wish to see one, not as I suppose he can save life, but may make death more easy.

DANIEL FORD."

MR. JOHN FORD, Dumfries.

This young gentleman was bit by a mad dog at Port Tobacco in Maryland, precisely 37 days before the symptoms of the Hydrophobia appeared. On applying to Dr. Brown and Dr. Jeniler, they were of opinion that the wound was too deep and in a situation too dangerous to attempt incission, but advised him to keep it open; and for this purpose directed stimulating Mercurial applications This advice he pursued, but being under great apprehensions, he thought it prudent to go to a Dutch Clergyman, living near Lancaster, Pennsylvania, who was celebrated for having discovered an infallible remedy for the bite of a mad dog. And here it may be proper to take notice that the day before he died he related the circumstances of his case very fully, and with the greatest composure, and in a rational and intelligent manner. The Dutchman's medicine, he obtained, was called a Decoction, and was deemed so efficacious, that one dose only was sufficient; but in order to make his cure perfectly complete, he said, he took two doses, and the immediate effects of the medicine on his system were severe but exactly such as the prescriber had foretold. Whilst at the Dutchman's he heard the most wonderful accounts of the efficacy of the Decoction; of people travelling more than a thousand miles in quest of it; and that it had never failed in a single instance. Relying on these testimonies he returned home overjoyed, and believing himself out of all danger, unluckily suffered the wound to heal up, and all the horrors of Hydrophobia vanished from his mind.

In almost every age and every country, infalliable remedies for Canine Madness have been published to the world, all claiming the sanction of experience, and recounting in support of their efficacy a long catalogue of wonderful cures: Yet, succeeding trials of the same boasted remedies have destroyed their credit, and proved them to be gross impositions. A popular reliance on such Nostrums cannot be too strongly reprobated because, by lulling the patient into groundless ideas of security it leads to the neglect of what may be really useful; and even in this unhappy instance, had Mr. Ford followed the directions of the medicinal gentlemen at Port Tobacco, and kept up a discharge from the part bitten for 10 or 12 weeks, it is very probable his life might have been saved.

At Shippensburgh, (Penn.) on the 20th ult. Miss ELIZABETH SHIPPEN, daughter of Joseph Shippen, Esq. of Plumley Farm, Chester County.

Yesterday morning, at the country seat of his brother, on the Schuylkill, Mr. JONATHAN ROBESON, of this city, in the 47th year of his age, after a severe illness of seven days, of a bilious cholic. In him were strongly marked the affectionate husband and father—the sincere friend, and chearful companion. In his walk through life, he manifested the strictest honor and probity—and in his voluntary attendance on the numerous afflicted citizens at Masters's camp, during the pestilence of '98, every exertion of humanity, at the hazard of his life, and sacrifice of property, demonstrated that, no danger could appal—no fatigue lessen his steady devotion to the "cries of the poor, and the sighing of the needy."

ELECTION.

The friends to the Election of JAMES ROSS, as Governor, resident in the Townships of Blockley and Kingsessing, are requested to meet at George Weed's lower Bridge on Schuylkill, on Saturday, 31st August, at 3 o'clock, to take into consideration the most proper steps in support of his Election.

Blockley, August 23, 1799.

THE subscribers, members of the Grand Inquest of the county of Chester, having attentively and deliberately considered the relative merits of the two persons now in nomination for Governor, to succeed the present, do not hesitate in pledging themselves to support JAMES ROSS, of Pittsburgh, at the ensuing election for office, inasmuch as he has always, with that consistency which exclusively appertains to the friends of America, advocated her rights in spite of all the menaces and calumnies of foreign emissaries or domestic traitors; that his mind has been superior to the popular clamours of the moment steadily pursuing the interests of the people without being of this party to-day, and the other to-morrow, as popular prejudice might seem to vibrate; and as there will be a vacancy in the Senate of Pennsylvania, at the ensuing election, for a Senator, from the district composed of the counties of Chester, Montgomery and Bucks, we do recommend, as our choice, and are determined to support ZEBULON POTTS, Esq. for said office.

At a respectable meeting of a number of the Citizens in the southern part of the County of Philadelphia, agreeable to public notice at the house of Cadwallader Evans in Southwark, for the purpose of promoting the election of JAMES ROSS, esq. of Pittsburg, Joseph Bird, Esq. was unanimously chosen Chairman.

This meeting taking into consideration the critical situation of our country, assailed with implacable animosity by a vindictive and savage enemy, whom neither the laws of God nor the ordinances of man have been found to influence, and who has not only practised upon these United States every species of insult, fraud and violence, but committed unexampled acts of cruelty and murder upon our inoffensive and defenceless fellow citizens—

Resolved, That in the opinion of this meeting the choice of a Chief Magistrate of this state being intimately connected with the future happiness of the nation, we are convinced that he should be a man possessing a just regard for the honor, dignity and prosperity of his country, perfectly free from the influence of those perfidious and sacrilegious principles of Jacobinism which have already extinguished every republic on earth but our own—a man totally exempt from foreign influence, interests or connections, to whose integrity and patriotism the Federal government can look with implicit confidence for support in time of danger.

Resolved, That this meeting are of opinion that JAMES ROSS, Esq. of Pittsburg possesses in an eminent degree those qualifications and virtues that are indispensably requisite in the executive of a good government—that his conduct heretofore in the State Convention which adopted the Federal Constitution and in the Senate of the United States has been such as to merit our entire confidence and approbation. Therefore we are determined individually to use all honorable means in our power to promote the election of said James Ross to the office of Governor of this Commonwealth.

The Swift-Sure,
A NEW LINE OF STAGES,
NOW RUNNING BETWEEN PHILADELPHIA & NEW-YORK,
By the short and pleasant road of
Bustleton, Newtown, Scotch Plains, Springfield and Newark.

THE excellence of this road, the populousness of the country through which it passes, with sundry other advantages, which render it so far preferable to the Old Road through Bristol, Brunswick, &c. long ago suggested the propriety of its becoming the Grand Thorough-Fare from Philadelphia to New York. During the present year, a minute survey of it has been taken, and its superiority over the Old Road, both in winter and summer, has been clearly ascertained.—There are good bridges over all the other waters but the Delaware, and here the crossing is performed with great safety and in less than half the time required at the Trenton Ferry. The road is several miles shorter than the old road, but this is amongst the least of its advantages, because daily experience proves to us, that dispatch as well as comfort in travelling principally depend on the goodness of the road and the levelness of the country, and, in these respects, the New Road is, beyond all comparison, the best. It presents none of those rocky hills, which render the Old Road so fatiguing between the Delaware and Newark. The soil, too, for the greater part, is such as to produce but little mud in winter, and very little dust in summer, which circumstance, added to the beauty of the country, and a considerable proportion of shade, must always render travelling in the latter season peculiarly agreeable.

The Swift Sure starts from PHILADELPHIA, at 6 o'clock every morning (Sundays excepted) from the GREEN TREE, opposite the Lutheran Church, North Fourth street. It goes through Frankford to Bustleton, where it stops to Breakfast; from Bustletown it goes through Newtown to Penny-town to dinner; from Penny-town through Hopewell, Millstone, Bound-brook, Quibbletown and Plainfield to Scotch Plains to lodge. The next morning it stops at Springfield to breakfast, from whence it goes through Newark and arrives at New-York at noon.

From NEW-YORK it starts at 3 o'clock in the afternoon (from Paulus Hook) and arrives at Philadelphia the next evening. For seats at New-York, application may be made to Edward Bardin, Old Coffee house, to A. Mathieu, corner of Nassau and John streets, to B. Many, no. 48, Courtlandt, corner of Greenwich street, and to Michael Little, at his hotel, no. 42, Broad street.

Fare for passengers, Five Dollars.
Way passengers 6 Cents per Mile.

Each passenger is allowed to take on 14lbs. of baggage carriage free; but all other baggage, taken on by a passenger, will be charged at 4 cents per pound weight.

With respect to packages sent on without passengers, the proprietors presume they have adopted a regulation, which, though unknown to other lines of stages, they think must meet with general approbation. They pledge themselves to make good every package on the following conditions. The person who delivers the package at the office shall see it entered in the stage-book, for which entry he shall pay 6 cents; he will then state the value of the package, and pay (exclusive of the carriage) one per cent. on the value, as insurance, and for which he will receive a receipt. Thus, for instance, if he estimates his package at one dollar, he will pay one cent. and if at one hundred dollars, he will pay one dollar insurance, and in like proportion for packages of any other value.

Very few persons it is presumed, will dislike this regulation; it will however, be optionable with every one to avail himself of this security or not. But the proprietors think it right to state very explicitly, that they will be responsible for the safe delivery of no package, which is not regularly entered, and for which an insurance receipt cannot be produced.

In the distribution of the route, the greatest care has been taken to fix on such places and taverns as always afford a good accommodation and entertainment for the passengers at the most reasonable rates. The stages are well equipped furnished with fleet and steady horses, and committed to the care of intelligent sober and obliging drivers. The proprietors themselves live at the different towns and villages where the stages will stop, so that the conduct of the persons they employ is continually an object of their attention.—They take care also to see that the passengers are well provided for and politely treated at the taverns, and that no sort of chicanery or insolence is practised upon them; in short, they have spared neither pains nor expence to render the SWIFT-SURE the very best line of stages in America.

The line has now run nearly a month, during which time a great number of gentlemen have gone through, both from Philadelphia and New-York. Every passenger has found the road to surpass very far all that has been said of its excellence; and the Proprietors of the Swift Sure are extremely happy to hear the behaviou, of their drivers, and the treatment at Taverns spoken of with the highest satisfaction.
